

Introducing Greenlee Global LLC

I am open for business. More than two years ago, I resigned my position as U.S. Assistant Secretary for Aging and returned home to Kansas. After a long and successful career in public service, I have the ability to chart my own course and steer my professional future. What I most desire are opportunities to raise my voice about issues that matter to me, to older people and, yes, to the world. I want to harness what I have learned and find new ways to make a difference in the lives of others.

I have created Greenlee Global LLC, a consulting business that will allow me the flexibility to pursue regional and national projects and partnerships. I can make significant contributions to efforts that address health, aging, disability, elder maltreatment, long-term care, and LGBTQ health. I have also noted since returning to the Midwest, I can carry issues of rural aging in ways that are unique to my professional experience and personal background.

Earlier this year, the Sunflower Foundation announced a major grant to support my continued work in the area of elder abuse and neglect, an issue I championed during my time in Washington. The grant support has provided me an opportunity to delve more deeply into the nature of the problem and assess the status of prevention and response efforts in Kansas and nationally. Wherever my future work takes me, I will remain grounded in my commitment to this issue.

I hope to write and to teach. I recently affiliated with the University of Missouri Kansas City School of Law as Adjunct Professor. I am pleased to return to my academic roots. I am a lawyer with a most nontraditional career. For the past two years I have been employed by the Center for Practical Bioethics and will maintain a professional relationship with them going forward. I remain active in several national organizations and find myself on airplanes frequently.

My resume and additional information can be found at www.GreenleeGlobal.com. You can contact me directly at Kathy@GreenleeGlobal.com. I have included you in this initial notice either because of our prior relationship or because we have recently exchanged business cards. If you do not wish to remain in this particular Greenlee Global loop, please either drop me a note or unsubscribe below.

In the end, I am an advocate. I look forward to tackling tough problems, advancing practical solutions and making forward progress.
